

Monk Students

Freshman Monks

Billen, the Vow of Poverty Kid

Race: Human

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of the Impoverished*

Billen has taken a vow of poverty, and he takes it very seriously. Perhaps too seriously. He has to borrow a pencil and paper to take notes in each class, but always gives them back (even the paper) for fear that owning his notes would violate his vow. The words "Go ahead, keep it" can send him into blind panic. If he gets a rock in his shoe, he spends far too much time wondering if this constitutes ownership of the rock, and whether he could just toss it away or if he should donate the rock to charity. And then comes the search for a charity that's willing to take a small piece of gravel...

(* There is not currently a write-up for this tradition)

t'Nee

Race: Grung

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of the Tiny Dancer

t'Nee is an enthusiastic and generally cheerful young frog, who was sent to Sigil Prep largely to get him away from the Clan. He worships Wastri, the god of amphibians and bigotry, and brags often about how racist he is, although he gets along with everyone and genuinely likes people of all races. Except bullywugs. He hates bullywugs with a passion. He calls them 'assholes,' but that's just coincidence, as 'asshole' is the Grung word for 'bullywug.'

t'Nee is somewhat distraught that he is slowly shrinking over time.

(t'Nee is a PC in the current Sigil Prep game; thanks to his player)

Sophomore Monks

Kiki Swansgrace

Race: Crane Hengeyokai

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of the Kensei

Thin and awkward, Kiki has chosen the naginata as her preferred weapon. The fact that this weapon is not entirely the best choice for someone as clumsy as she is has yet to dawn on her. She signs up for nearly every Young Knights of Myth Drannor outing, and is the first to charge into battle when the adventure gets intense. And then she's the first to fall down. Tripping over her weapon, her feet, her friends, or the giant carnivorous flying squirrel they're fighting.

If you use a critical fumble table, assume any miss for Kiki is a critical miss. If you don't use a critical fumble table, use one for Kiki.

Moira McScottish

Race: Human

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of the Open Hand

Moira is a bit temperamental, which got her kicked out of the Way of Tranquility, but that's okay, since Way of the Open Hand encourages hitting more openly. Her small size and freckled face make even her rage-iest face seem cute, but you don't underestimate her once she punches you a couple of times.

She has a collection of plush owl bears, because they (for some reason) "remind her of her brothers."

(For more information, see the "D# Princesses" document under "Student Life")

Senior Monks

Ember Emberl

Race: Human

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of Tranquility

Ember is somewhat reserved and stoic, and spends a lot of time espousing various philosophical views related to her spiritual insights and meditations, but down deep, she just really wants people to ask her to go places with them. Parties and shopping. Whatever. Somewhere. It'd be nice.

But she makes such a big deal about how such things aren't important to her, people tend to take her at her word, and let her stay home to meditate. She's lonely. But she's really good at meditating.

(Ember is based on a portrait character from Player's Handbook (2000; 2003); property of WotC)

Taertha

Race: Medusa

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of the Long Death

Despite her scaly complexion and her long, wavy batch of serpents that she keeps pulled back in a ponytail, Taertha is one of the school's most stylish fashion mavens. She knows the hottest looks on seven primes, and is always ahead of the curve. Her only constancy is the pair of shades she always wears, although this is more necessity than style. Statues can't tell her how fantastic she looks.

(for more information, see the "Sigil Prep Cheer Squad" document)

Monk Graduate Students

E'fleh

Race: Githzerai

Class: Monk Monastic Tradition: Way of Tranquility

Any freshman monk PC might have E'Fleh as a student teacher in one of their classes. E'Fleh believes strongly in education through meditation. If he sits in lotus on top of his desk, he thinks, still and in deep thought, his students will reach understanding. Oddly, it seems to work.

Text and concept by Patrick Duke
Art and logo design by David Cummings
Dungeons & Dragon and all related properties ©Wizards of the Coast